Dear Mr. French,

We recently relocated to the St. Louis area via a corporate relocation with The Boeing Company. My husband and I were quickly contacted by your office to assist us during this transition. We met with Sandy Walbridge-Dolin in early May on our 1st house hunting trip. Sandy exceeded our expectations and was very courteous and knowledgeable about the greater St. Louis community. She initially contacted us while we were still residing in Georgia. Sandy took the time to get to know us and quickly established the parameters we were looking for in a new home. The listings website that Wm. French Realty provides to potential buyers is extremely helpful, easy to navigate and cull through the numerous homes on the market.

We arrived at a time when the market was moving quite rapidly and homes were selling within 24/48 hours if they were desirable, in good locations, clean and "move in" condition. Sandy prepared our tour of homes each day and assisted us in answering questions about each area we were considering. With the help of Sandy's route planner, we visited the greatest number of homes in the shortest possible travel time. By the end of our week, we felt we had chosen "the one". Unfortunately, after returning to Georgia, we had to back out of the contract due to structural foundation issues. Nevertheless, we were quite pleased with thoroughness of the inspections, and the excellent cooperation of the inspectors involved.

A second house hunting trip was planned, meanwhile Sandy continued to forward emails with new listings. After another whirlwind trip of the area, we realized we were blessed with not only a realtor we would refer to others in the future, but a friend who had our best interest at heart. We entered into a 2nd contract but knew there was a contingent kick-out looming ahead of us. Although we lost this purchase too, a fallback plan was in place.

We are now settling into our new home in O'Fallon and believe we purchased the "right home" in a safe neighborhood with wonderful neighbors. We have already recommended Sandy to a potential buyer who has recently moved here from Georgia.

Thank you to Sandy Walbridge-Dolin and Wm French Buyer's Real Estate Services for assisting us during our transitional move to St. Louis.
